

France Sides With Britain In Efforts to Halt Conflict Between Italy and Ethiopia

ITALY WILL GO AHEAD WITH HER AFRICAN PLANS

Fleet Concentration Brings Comment From Editors

By Andree Berding
Associated Press Foreign Staff
Rome, Sept. 13.—(P)—Italy announced tonight she would go straight ahead with her plans in East Africa and at the same time a semi-official newspaper said the country would "answer measures" to Great Britain's concentration of a fleet in the Mediterranean.

Commenting on the speech at Geneva of Premier Pierre Laval of France, in which he supported obligations under the League of Nations, an editorial in the newspaper said it would not change Premier Mussolini's plans.

The cabinet will meet tomorrow in its regular session.

Laval's speech created an impression in official circles here that it was "neither favorable nor unfavorable." His general statements backing up the League pact were felt to be "in line" with references to French agreements in January with Mussolini.

Rome newspapers gave no hope tonight Italy would accept the compromise Laval indicated he is working for unless it included full military control of Ethiopia.

The semi-official Aziende Coloniale (Colonial enterprise) said Italy was being placed "in a state of alarm" in the Mediterranean by Britain's fleet concentration and would take measures in answer.

The moment has come to demand to what end Great Britain is pursuing in the Mediterranean Sea, the publication asserted. It described at length London's reinforcement of naval bases and the fleet in the Mediterranean and Red Sea and concluded:

"Every arrival of a British fleet unit in our sea cannot but give rise to other measures on our part."

"Much more serious must be our answer if she intends to transport her home fleet near our shores. In fact, the answer will be given even before it arrives."

At the recent meeting of the cabinet at Bolzano, it was recalled, the leaders declared a military provision already had been taken to answer any threat of sanctions. Maneuvers have been conducted quietly by the Italian main fleet in the Mediterranean.

Issue Warrant For Samuel Sweitzer

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(P)—A warrant charging the operation of a confidence game was issued today by Judge Justin F. McCarthy for the arrest of Samuel Sweitzer.

The latter, Assistant Prosecutor William Weldon said, was described to him as a brother of Robert M. Sweitzer, former Cook county treasurer, now under indictment charged with withholding $414,129 in public funds.

The complainant against Samuel Sweitzer is Arnold J. Ehrman, an insurance salesman, who charges he gave the former $400 to adjust some taxes, and an additional $150 to get an appointment as assistant U. S. district attorney. Nothing was done for him, Ehrman charges, and Sweitzer refused to return the money.

Neither Sweitzer could be located. 1. Harvey Levinson, attorney for Robert M. Sweitzer, said the latter had a brother named Samuel.

ELECT OFFICERS

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(P)—The Illinois Conference Brotherhood, a men's organization of the Augustana Synod of the Lutheran church, ended its convention here today with the election of the following officers:

President, Lawrence J. Dahlgren, Chicago attorney; vice president, J. J. August Swenson, Rockford, Ill.; secretary, Herman Schultz, Racine, Wis.; treasurer, Samuel L. Anderson, Chicago.

Weather

For Jacksonville and vicinity—Generally fair and continued warm weather is predicted for today and tomorrow.

The U. S. Cooperative Weather Bureau at the Norbury Sanitarium last night gave temperatures as: high 83, current 76 and low 58. Barometer readings were: A. M. 30.12; P. M. 30.10.

Illinois: Generally fair and continued warm Saturday and Sunday.

Indiana: Generally fair and continued warm Saturday and Sunday.

Missouri: Generally fair Saturday and Sunday; continued warm.

Iowa: Generally fair Saturday and Sunday; continued warm.

Wisconsin: Partly cloudy to cloudy, slightly warmer Saturday; Sunday partly cloudy.

FRIDAY 13TH SUPERSTITION GETS 'BLOW'

Old Man Is Pushed Around And Has Nose Punched

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(P)—Old man superstition took a thumping this Friday, the thirteenth.

They pulled his ears, tweaked his nose, pushed him around.

The 13 members of Chicago's anti-superstition club openly defied him on the Arrowhead golf course. They moved to the first tee under a canopy of ladders, black cats were led across the fairway. They drove through mirrors. Cigarettes were lighted three to a match during the 13-hole tournament.

At 6:13 they sat down—13 at the table—to a 13-course dinner. They spilled salt, opened umbrellas. Thirteen popular superstitions were ridiculed.

Thirteen members of the Black Cat club—each has sold exactly 13 accident insurance policies on some Friday, the 13th—lunched at 12:13 at a Chicago hotel.

Members of the Anti-Jinx club—all born on some Friday, the 13th—lunched at Oklahoma City.

Loran Fisher and Virginia Cornish received marriage license No. 13 in New York. Byline Acontius and Elmer Solar procured a similar document in Chicago—but glided under a ladder first.

President Roosevelt told newsmen he considered 13 a lucky number.

But not for some folks.

At Northampton, Mass., Wincenty Mazata hanged himself with 13 feet of rope. At Milwaukee Paul Shepherd shied a stone at a black cat. It bounced through a shop window. He was arrested.

Demonstrators Will Protest Court Ruling

Judge Grants Permanent Injunction In Decatur Picketing Case

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 11.—(P)—Labor unions tonight planned a mass demonstration here in protest of Judge C. Y. Miller's action earlier Friday in granting a permanent injunction to restrain picketing at four garment factories where a strike is in progress.

Judge Miller granted a temporary injunction last April, limiting the number of pickets and placing Decatur Garment Workers Union members under a court order to refrain from disorders.

Union garment workers walked out last February in a dispute over recognition of the union and other labor differences. The strike was never settled, although state and federal department of labor conciliators were called to arbitrate the controversy.

Judge Miller's action today made permanent the injunction he granted the factory operators last April, after rioting between police and strikers occurred at all of the four plants.

No date had been set tonight for the protest meeting. Representatives of Decatur labor unions were at Belleville where they sponsored a resolution against the use of court injunctions in labor disputes.

Victor Thompson Under Indictment

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—Victor Thompson, younger brother of Gerald Thompson, who is in Joliet penitentiary under sentence of death for the murder of Mildred Hallmark, was named in three indictments charging indecent liberties, returned Friday afternoon by the September grand jury in Peoria County Circuit Court.

Victor Thompson is accused of taking indecent liberties with an eight-year-old boy. The boy is the son of a neighbor of George Thompson, grandparents of Victor and Gerald, with whom they lived in Peoria.

DeGranges proved he was very much alive yesterday by sending his attorneys into probate court to collect the money—the fruit of 20 shares of stock in Streator Aqueduct Company—he purchased 55 years ago.

When the Illinois Water Service company purchased the Streator firm in 1930 the owner of the stock could not be found. The accrued dividends and interest were probated as part of his estate and ordered held for heirs.

Ten persons made unsuccessful claims for the money before DeGranges posted a letter six months ago, asking the present value of the stock, for which he still held a certificate.

Judge Elmer E. Roberts ruled yesterday DeGranges was the rightful owner and ordered the fund turned over to his counsel.

FOREMAN ELECTROCUTED

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—Albert Druen, 36, assistant foreman of the Ferguson Construction company, Rockford, Ill., was electrocuted tonight when a guy wire he had loosened came in contact with a high voltage electric wire. The company was engaged in constructing passage for a state highway under the Illinois Central railroad.

Discount 'Motives' in Long Killing

Sensational charges that Dr. Carl A. Weiss, slayer of Huey Long, was a member of a murder club sworn to kill the dictator and that he became the assassin by "drawing the short straw" are met with skepticism in Louisiana. Relatives believed Weiss became insane brooding over the loss of his state's rights under Long's rule. They discount the early view that he committed the crime because the Long forces were endeavoring to oust his father-in-law, Judge P. H. Favy, of Opelousas, La., from the bench by a redistricting maneuver.

W. G. M'ADOO TO WED YOUNG NURSE TODAY

Ceremony Will Take Place At Home Of Daughter

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 13.—(P)—Romance flowered for a third time today in the life of William Gibbs McAdoo, California's 71-year-old senator, when it was announced he would marry Miss Doris Cross, 26, public health service nurse, in Washington tomorrow.

Mrs. Nellie Cross of San Diego, mother of the bride-to-be, said the ceremony would take place at 4 p. m. at the Washington home of the senator's daughter, Mrs. Brice Claggett.

McAdoo, who was divorced in Los Angeles last year by the former Eleanor Wilson, a daughter of President Woodrow Wilson.

Miss Cross, described by her friends as serious-minded, studious and religious, met the senator while she was taking a nursing course in Santa Barbara. Their acquaintanceship developed into romance when their paths crossed later in Washington.

McAdoo, who was secretary of the treasury under President Wilson, could not be reached for comment.

His associates in Washington expressed surprise, saying he had been seldom seen with Miss Cross, but confirmed the announcement.

In the national capital it was said Miss Cross was given a special appointment to be public health service a little more than two years ago at Senator McAdoo's request. She was assigned to cooperative studies in rural health.

Miss Cross is described as being 5 feet 2, with eyes of blue, dark brown hair and of medium build.

Senator McAdoo married Miss Sarah E. Fleming about 50 years ago. After her death he married Miss Wilson.

Dr. E. P. Sloan, state surgeon, died today in St. Joseph's hospital at the age of 57.

Born in Meosho, Mo., he had lived in Bloomington since 1905. Dr. Sloan was organizer and ex-president of the American Association for the study of goiter. He also had served as head of the Illinois State Board of Health and the Illinois State Medical Society.

Surviving are two sons, Howard P. Sloan, Bloomington, and Ralph E. Sloan, New York.

WILL REDUCE PROFITS

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—Market specialists predicted here today that greatly increased costs of feeder cattle will reduce the profits of beef farmers who feed cattle for the market this fall and winter.

Any profits to be made, they told, about 1,000 farmers attending the eighth annual cattle feeder's day at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, will hinge on lower costs of grain and on selection of the right market for which to finish beef.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ledford and daughter Ruth, Miss Lillie Ledford and Miss Fannie Boyd attended the Illinois Conference at Bloomington Thursday.

'RATION BOX' RELIEF SYSTEM IS ABOLISHED

Commission Plans To Reduce Costs Five Per Cent

By Harry L. Thomas
Associated Press Staff Writer
Chicago, Sept. 13.—(P)—Uncertain as to the load it will be carrying after this month, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission today abolished the "ration box" system heretofore used to supply staple food supplies to Cook county clients.

Under this system, contracts with wholesale grocery houses were signed, and the supplies distributed by the wholesalers to the clients, giving the commission the benefit of lower prices on such articles as flour, syrup, coffee, canned goods and other staples.

The resolution ending this system, as adopted at the regular weekly commission meeting today, made such action contingent upon securing a 5 per cent reduction in the prices charged the commission for such commodities by retail dealers supplying them directly to relief clients on regular grocery orders.

"With the works progress commission planning to take a large part of our load by Nov. 1," John C. Martin, commission chairman said, "the members felt that the commission should not be committed to large purchases when it has no knowledge as to what load it will be carrying."

It was pointed out to Martin that Gov. Henry Horner, in announcing that he would call the legislature into special session soon for consideration of welfare problems, might have under consideration legislation which would end the commission's existence.

Martin said that WPA probably would take over the care of 225,000 families now on Illinois relief rolls, leaving about 60,000 to the commission's care as unemployables.

"Of these 60,000," the chairman added, "perhaps 20,000 would be cared for under other public welfare or social security measures—old age pensions, blind pensions and the like."

Assassination

Of Huey Long Causes Debate

Illinois Methodists Finally Eliminate Reference From Report

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—A reference to the assassination of Senator Huey Long in a committee report of the Illinois Methodist Church today caused a forty-five-minute debate which ended with the amendment of the report and the elimination of the personal reference.

Originally the committee on church and world order said: "The assassination of Senator Long is a crime of the first magnitude and we condemn it. We do not approve of his political methods, but we admire the vigor and independence of his spirit, and the strength with which he asserted the rights of the common man."

As amended the paragraph took a stand against the assassination of any man, whether in or out of political life, and the reference to Senator Long was eliminated.

Delegates on the floor questioned the propriety of the conference condoning any actions of the late Senator Long or expressing any opinion of his political life.

The conference adopted suggestions to supplement the report by asking abolition of the Japanese exclusion act and taking a stand against liquor and gambling.

Disastrous Fire
At Baltimore

Baltimore, Sept. 13.—(P)—Nine hours after it started, a blistering fire still roared late tonight in a $1,500,000-gallon naphtha tank at the Standard Oil company's plant here, while firemen and company employees checked spread of the blaze.

The fire flared so quickly that all the dozens of firemen and 250 company employees could do was fight to control the blaze and prevent its spread to other reservoirs.

Although the tank and the 700,000-gallons of naphtha it contained were said to be a total loss, some 20,000 gallons of crude oil, naphtha, gasoline and benzene stored in nearby tanks were saved.

FAILS TO FIND DEATH

New York, Sept. 13.—(P)—Grace Volmer, 19, failed to find death in a triple-hazard leap today.

She jumped from a Bronx viaduct and barely missed striking high tension wires which might have shocked her to death.

She landed on the tracks 35 feet below but was not killed.

The motor man of a approaching train stopped just before the forward trucks were about to pass over her.

She was taken to a hospital suffering from contusion and possible internal injuries.

Six Weeks Employment Campaign Is Announced By President Roosevelt

By Francis M. Stephenson
Associated Press Staff Writer
Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 13.—(P)—President Roosevelt announced today a six weeks employment campaign under Harry L. Hopkins with plans for an ultimate self-liquidating permanent improvement program under direction of Secretary Ickes.

With this demarcation the quarrel between Ickes and Hopkins over expenditure of the four-billion dollar works relief fund seemed to be settled, at least for the time being.

Talking freely in the small study room of the family home at the regular semi-weekly press conference today, Mr. Roosevelt outlined in detail his works program.

Obviously with a thought to his declaration of recovery, the president reiterated the idea of saving and proposed that in the next congress legislation be enacted establishing revolving funds to provide for housing through projects to be submitted by Secretary Ickes and laid down the following rules for them: They must be of nature that contracts may be let on or before December 15; they must be such as can be completed within a year; there must be in a region where there are sufficient people on relief rolls to do the job; and they must meet a requirement that an average of $850 is paid in wages for each worker.

Stating he expected to regain previous allocations from the public housing and rural electrification items, Mr. Roosevelt also said he was calling here Jesse Jones, chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation, and Morris Cooke, director of rural electrification, to seek ways of doing the electrification job through government loans.

While announcing intention to give $200,000,000 more to cities and states for public works to be matched by them with $225,000,000, the president in looking ahead pointed constantly to future self-paying and permanent projects.

After the six weeks drive by Hopkins to pick up what he called the slack in employment, Mr. Roosevelt said he would re-check upon his return from the Pacific coast trip and determine the situation.

Mr. Roosevelt also announced he intended to maintain the civilian conservation corps as permanent proposition on the basis of 300,000 men. He ordered $75,000,000 more for the corps to bring it to a strength of six hundred thousand.

As for the dispute between Ickes and Hopkins, the president explained that in yesterday's day and night meeting the problem was reduced to three propositions—dollars, men available and time.

Little immediate response was forthcoming from Washington on the reported plans of Long leaders to seek an end to their difficulties with the national administration.

While politics claimed the major interest, an announcement was made that the inquiry into the slaying will be resumed Monday with eyewitnesses and Long's bodyguards expected to be called.

Mrs. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., widow of the 30-year-old Baton Rouge eye specialist who shot Long, and who was in turn killed by Long's bodyguards denied in Opelousas that her husband was involved in a plot in which conspirators drew straws to select the killer of Long.

Mrs. James H. Wolfe, chairman of the women's division of the Democratic National Committee, explaining that a feminine brigade of New Deal supporters is ready to take the field this fall:

"We see no reason for worry about the constitution. It takes a vote of the people to change it, something that seems sometimes to have been forgotten. And history shows the Republicans have been the principal constitution-changers."

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, reaching an understanding with President Roosevelt for retirement next month as New York works relief administrator:

Dr. Forest C. "Phog" Allen, athletic director at the University of Kansas and prominent basketball authority, denouncing subsidized college athletics and pro football for "making bumps out of college athletes":

POLICEMAN WOUNDED

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(P)—A policeman's gun battle with four holdup men on busy 63rd street today left the officer, Samuel McDowell and one of the would-be robbers wounded on the sidewalk.

McDowell was escorting Miss Beatrice Cunningham, (Prudential) Life Insurance company cashier, to bank with $1600 when two of four men jumped from an automobile and one grabbed the bag carrying the money.

McDowell dropped him with one shot, but was hit by two bullets when the others sped away.

The wounded robber gave his name as Walter Schmidt, 34.

Plenty of Fruit

Nature has blessed this section of the country with an abundance of fruit this season. There are peaches, apples and grapes in sufficient quantity to enable all who are able to do so to can what they need for the coming year.

The peach crop is unusually good. It is one of those years when peaches do well and the trees bring forth a bountiful harvest. Such crops are not frequent, but when they do occur,
there is plenty for everybody.

Grapes are also plentiful. With the coming of repeal, there may not be so much demand for them as formerly,
but some people still think they can make pretty good wine at home. For those who like grape juice, there is good opportunity to lay in a supply.

The apple crop is as good as usual,
and the apple country not so far from here expects a good harvest. The picking and packing of fruit promises employment to several hundred people. With such a wide variety of products so plentiful this year, the cost of living for the coming winter should be somewhat less, in spite of soaring prices of food.

A Rogers Souvenir

John R. Stanton, a former White Hall man, won a bet and gained a souvenir he now prizes far more highly than the cash the bet brought him. He played minor parts in pictures with Will Rogers, and one day in the studio made a bet with the famous humorist on the Stanford-California football game. He won $10
from Rogers.

When he told Will he was going to frame the check, the obliging movie star sent along a $10 bill with the check and a letter. Mr. Stanton now has the check and the letter Rogers wrote him, and would not part with them for many times the amount of the wager.

Millions of Americans would be proud to own a souvenir of Will Rogers. His memory will live long and any relics of his life will doubtless be sought after a century hence.
His humorous sayings will be preserved in books and articles. It is likely he will come to be regarded as a second Mark Twain. It is significant that his death should occur in the centennial year of the birth of America's foremost humorist.

Using Farm Products

There is nearing completion at the Ford River Rouge plant a mill for the manufacture of automobile parts from soybean plastics. The enterprise is costing $5,000,000, which means that the experiment is expected to produce results. If it does, there will be a new and expanding market for soybeans, which have increased in importance as an American farm crop
in the past decade.

Other experiments are planned to find new ways of using farm products in manufacturing. Paper from corn stalks, grain alcohol in gasoline, cellulose and its countless uses, all are the results of such experiments that have proved worth while.

Only in this way can new outlets be found for farm produce to enable the farmer to keep his land up to the maximum of production. It is much better to supply him a profitable market than to levy a tax on the people to create an artificial market and cut down the acreage in crops. Every possible encouragement should be given practical means of using the farmer's raw materials in manufacturing.

Criticism of Alberta Plan Does Not Solve Problem

By Bruce Catton
It is easy enough to shoot a lot of holes in that plan which is about to be tried out in the province of Alberta, whereby every citizen is to draw down $25 a month from the government
just for being alive.

What isn't so easy is to find an answer to the problem which brought this scheme into being.

The $25-a-month plan sounds like something that might have been thought up by a bright lad in the fifth grade. It is so deceptively simple, so completely and perfectly logical—on the surface.

Farmers, laborers and business men have been having hard times lately because trade has been slow. Trade has been slow because people haven't been buying things. People haven't been buying things because they haven't had enough money.

Why haven't they had enough money? Well, it seems to have been rather scarce. And where does money come from? Why, it is issued by the government. What, then, could be simpler than to settle everything by having the government dish out a handful of it every month to everybody in sight? Then everybody will have plenty, things will be bought once more, and all hands will be happy.

It's all sweetly reasonable and logical—until you take into consideration the fact that money which is ground out at that rate soon becomes as worthless as a marshmallow which fell off the toaster fork into the coals.

But although it is ridiculously easy
to tell just why and how the scheme won't work, it isn't anywhere nearly as easy to say what should be done about the difficulty which this scheme was devised to meet.

Back of it all there is a widespread feeling that the only thing which ails us today is some defect in our circulating medium. We can raise enough food to provide three bountiful meals a day for everybody in the land. We can build enough houses to give everyone a comfortable home.

We can make enough autos, radios,
refrigerators, chairs, washing machines, cigaret lighters and clotheslines to equip every mortal in more luxury and comfort than kings and queens enjoyed two generations ago. We have the plant to do all of these things, we have the workers, the skill and the energy.

And yet we have millions of people going without these comforts
because they can't pay for them; millions of people going jobless because these things aren't being sold.

It is all very well to deride the Alberta plan. But dizzier schemes than that will be taking hold before long if we don't find some way of unlocking the doors of plenty. No man yet was ever content to starve in the middle of a granary.

Disaster Always Rouses Nobility

The one bright side to any great natural catastrophe like the recent Florida hurricane is the fact that such a tragedy invariably does bring to light innumerable cases of individual heroism.

News stories from Florida have been full of such cases. Sailors engaged in rescue work, members of inland relief crews, doctors and coast guards and nurses and train crews and all manner of ordinary folk—all of them have shown repeatedly that the human race's fund of heroism, its capacity for self-sacrifice in time of stress, is utterly inexhaustible.

There seems to be something about human nature that makes it appear at its best under pressure. We go along in ordinary times and witness the pettiness, the selfishness, and the innumerable little ignominious traits that all of us are forever displaying,
and we begin to doubt that man is such a great shakes, after all.

Then something like this hurricane comes along, confronting thousands of obscure folk with pain, darkness,
and death—and invariably we discover that the race has deep reserves of nobility.

Baseball Thrives Despite Pessimism

The grand old game of baseball continues to thrive, in spite of the pessimists.

Several years of severe business depression coupled with the undeniable fact that baseball has more competition nowadays in the shape of golf, movies, etc., than it used to have, put red ink on a great many major league ledgers, and led some commentators to remark sadly that the public was getting tired of the game.

But it is announced from Detroit that more than 1,000,000 people have paid their way into the Tigers' Navin Field this year—an attendance record that would have looked good in the palmist of the good old days.

Baseball, evidently, is as popular as it ever was—so long as it is good,
wide-awake, hustling baseball.

Washington.—Undoubtedly the most beautiful lobbyist operating here is Miss Mary Bendelari, and undoubtedly the most pious lobbyist is your old friend
Joe Tumulty.

Let's tell you about Miss Bendelari
first. If there's any member of Congress who doesn't know she's lobbying for a law providing protective copyrights for industrial designs, that member must have been hospitalized a long time in some remote place.

Two years ago she was carrying her war against "design piracy" to NRA and got provisions against it into 72 codes. More lately she has been buttonholing Congress for a law permitting the author of any artistic model or design intended for use in manufacture to copyright same.

Single-handed, she persuaded the Senate to tack this onto the copyright bill. It died in a House committee with the rest of the copyright bill, but probably will go through next session.

Conspicuous about Mary Bendelari, aside from her nut-brown hair, brown eyes, statuesque beauty, and the direction with which she repels senators who makes passes at her, is her direct method of approach. Working in a cause she had no reason to be ashamed of, she had no fear of tackling a member openly in any lobby, corridor, or room of the Capitol.

It is also true that she knows more about the ramifications and implications of design than anybody else, but the burden of her message is that a designer's brain child shouldn't be exposed to any and all kidnappers.

And it's Mary's background that made me start to tell this story in the first place.

Pirated Out of Business

Daughter of a successful inventor,
she had a spinal injury many years ago and was sent to Europe to be treated by specialists. Lying in a London hospital, she thought up the idea of woven shoes and the result of that was that soon she was setting up a shop in Paris which eventually employed a hundred people and sold no end of fancy woven shoes to people who could afford them in half a dozen countries.

But the design pirates came along and eventually pirated her out of business and into a couple of nervous breakdowns.

That experience led her to come to Washington, mad as hops. She raised a few hundred dollars from furniture and carpet interests, but she was here
a couple of years and was usually broke, which made her one of the very few unpaid lobbyists.

(Miss Bendelari has patented an elastic-edge table cloth which snaps down over the table and stays put.
Also, a sheet which stays rigid on a bed.)

Tumulty Invites Probe

Joe Tumulty, who has been practicing "law" here since he and Wilson left the White House—and received $33,500 in the last year from utility holding companies—owes his piety award to a pamphlet entitled "Statement," which he has sent to his friends. Joe is notoriously sentimental.

The pamphlet offers the Black committee full access to all Tumulty's files and invites investigators to "examine into every cranny of my life."
It says he has handled many important matters before the Justice, State, War, Navy, and Postoffice Departments, the prohibition unit, NRA, Federal Trade Commission, Labor Department, Court of Claims, and RFC—
but never once in fourteen years did he surrender a single political or economic conviction.

Joe produces correspondence to show how, after accepting a retainer
from Insull, he had urged co-operation with the late Senator Tom Walsh's proposed "power trust" investigation and urged attacks by Insull on dishonest utility manipulators.

Later he urged co-operation with the FCT and abandonment of old-fashioned lobbying methods.
Again, on the securities act, Joe was urging "co-operation" to his Wall Street employers and expressing his contempt and distrust of high-priced mysterious lobbyists claiming magic powers and influence with the president. And in the holding company battle he was again urging co-operation and compromise.

Joe Almost Hysterical
"Not being willing to lobby," writes Joseph, "and being ashamed to tarnish old friendships to eke out a fee,
I give to clients, rich and poor alike,
the only thing a free soul possesses—that modest ability that gives to an honorable professional engagement the brain and vision one has. That I gave freely, honorably, unostentatiously, and clearly to those who sought my counsel and co-operation in the matter of the Wheeler bill."

Whereupon Joe breaks down and weeps over "an industry that has stood like a Rock of Gibraltar through the tides and travail of depression, paying annual taxes of $280,000,000 and whose aggregate value was $15,000,000,000."

He attacks the administration for lack of fair play, unwillingness to compromise, defends holding company propaganda methods and insists his clients operated "openly, honorably . . .

reference he compares advocates of the administration bill with Judas and Benedict Arnold. In fact, Joe, whose honesty nobody questions, gets darned near hysterical with sympathy for those poor abused holding companies.

Headache

"Inside Facts"
that may help you...

The first step toward relieving simple headache is to understand its cause. Pain is the cry of overtaxed nerves for rest. And when we realize that the nerves spread throughout every part of the body (see head diagram) we understand how serious a nervous disturbance can be.

In selecting a remedy for headache,
periodic pain, and other nerve pain,
use one that soothes the tense nerves.
Capudine is ideal for this simple headache, neuralgia pain, rheumatic or periodic pain because it relieves high nervous tension and brings welcome relaxation. Also remember that Capudine is quicker because it is a liquid—its ingredients are already dissolved. No narcotics or opiates.

there the St. Louis police department would escort them through the city and to the ball park. Doctors and nurses will be in the party to take care of any accidents or illness that may occur, and teachers from the school will accompany the children

Millikin And Illinois Will Play Out Two Year Contract

Illinois College and Millikin, whose gridiron relations were broken off two years ago, have signed a two year contract to begin this fall. Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter of the local college announced yesterday in issuing the schedule for the games. There are eight games on the schedule, three of them at home and five away from home, unless the fans here consider the game to be played at Decatur as the same as a home game, as they have in the past.

Physical examinations for prospective football players began last night with almost all of the varsity squad of last year showing up to take the tests. Regular practice will not begin until Monday, however, because of a Little 19 ruling forbidding practice until Sept. 15.

Arrangements for the Millikin game are that the first of the games will be played on the Millikin field this year, and the second game will be played on the Illinois College field in 1936. The game has been set for Oct. 12 this year, and will hold a corresponding place on the schedule next year.

In the process of a readjustment, the schedule is not exactly what the athletic officials would like to offer, but was the best that could be accomplished this year. Illinois will open against one of the toughest opponents on the schedule, Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Michigan, at Kalamazoo, and then will play Parsons college of Iowa, here, the following week-end, before going to Decatur for their opening Little 19 game.

Eastern Teachers, of Charleston, will appear here on Oct. 26, and McKendree college of Lebanon will be here for the final game of the season on Nov. 23. Games with Carthage, North Central and Western Teachers will complete the schedule.

The dates of the schedule:
Sept. 28—At Kalamazoo Teachers.
Oct. 5—Parsons College here.
Oct. 12—At Millikin.
Oct. 19—Open.
Oct. 26—Eastern Teachers, here.
Nov. 2—at Carthage.
Nov. 9—at North Central.
Nov. 16—at Western Teachers.
Nov. 23—McKendree here.

Rodeo and balloon ascension every Sunday 2:30. Admission 25c. New Berlin. Fish Fry and free dance every Saturday night. Horses for private sale at all times.

Tigers Smother Yankees 13 To 5

New York, Sept. 13.—(P)—The Tigers continued their fast pace along the pennant road today by walling the second-place Yankees, their only remaining challengers, for the second straight time, 13 to 5. The victory increased Detroit's lead to 9½ games.

In contrast to yesterday's game, when they came from behind to win, the Tigers went out ahead in the first inning today when Gerald Walker clouted the first of the game's five home runs, and they never were headed.

Lou Gehrig managed to tie the score in the fourth with his second home run of the game and his 30th of the season, but he couldn't halt the rampant Detroit crew. The Tigers belted Lefty Gomez for four runs in the fifth and finished with a five-run rally in the seventh as Hank Greenberg poled homer No. 35 with two aboard. The circuit swat put Greenberg two ahead of Jimmie Fox of the Athletics in the major league race.

Schoolboy Rowe had a comparatively easy time hanging up his 18th victory of the season. He allowed only six hits in the first eight innings and, outside of Gehrig's homers, only one run. He eased up a bit in the ninth and was touched for three hits, including the final boundary hit of the game by George Selkirk, and two runs. It was his fourth triumph over the Yanks this season.

Cubs Beat Dodgers 4-1 and Are Within Two Points Of League Leading Cardinals

Chicago, Sept. 13.—(P)—The speeding Cubs clicked off their tenth straight victory in their pursuit of the league leading Cardinals today, bunting their hits off George Earnshaw to defeat Brooklyn 4 to 1 before a ladies day crowd of 26,500.

While Larry French scattered eight Dodger hits for his 15th victory the Cubs jammed seven of their ten blows off the former American League star into the fourth and fifth innings. Three runs came in the fourth when singles by Frank Demaree, Phil Cavaretta, Stan Hack and Bill Jurges followed a pass to Gabby Hartnett.

Colonel Buster Mills, just purchased from Rochester, drove in the Brooklyn run with a double in the second.

Browns, Red Sox Split Twin Bill

Boston, Sept. 13.—(P)—The Red Sox belted a quintet of St. Louis moundsmen for 25 hits today, but were forced to divide a doubleheader when the Browns staged a four-run rampage in the eighth inning of the second game.

Backed by the heavy slugging of his teammates, who poked out 15 safeties, Wes Ferrell gained his 23rd win of the season when the Sox captured the opener, 13-4. In the second tilt, Lefty "Rube" Walberg had the situation well in hand until Julius "Moose" Solters' eight inning triple, which came with two on and started the Browns on the way to their 4-2 nightcap triumph.

Teams Use 34 Players In Ball Game That Produced 29 Hits And Nine Errors

St. Louis, Sept. 13.—(P)—The Giants outlasted the Cardinals today to win 13 to 10 in a ten inning battle of hits and errors that made Friday the thirteenth live up to the limit of its reputation.

The hard won triumph added little to the Giants' prestige although it evened their important series with St. Louis at one victory apiece and left them only 2½ games behind the league leaders. The Cards found themselves slapped down into a virtual tie with the fast-stepping Chicago Cubs, who won their tenth straight game. St. Louis, having played fewer games, clung to first place in the percentages, .635 to .631.

In addition to that setback, Dizzy Dean, who pitched the Cards to victory in the first game, returned to action just in time to lose the second for his ninth defeat of the season when the Giants cut loose with their winning rally.

Practically every thing that could happen in one game did happen as both teams used every available bit of man power to bring 34 players into action, made runs and tossed them away with amazing freedom. In all the Giants made 20 hits off four pitchers and were charged with four errors while the Cards made nine timely hits and erred five times.

The winning rally was something of an anti-climax after the hair-raising ninth inning in which each team scored four runs to leave the count deadlocked. Hank Leiber and Gus Mancuso opened it with a pair of singles that grazed infielders' gloves. After Dick Bartell had been belted, Mark Koenig came in as a pinch hitter and rolled a double-play ball down to Leo Durocher, who fumbled it and let Leiber score. Frank Gabler, fifth of the Giant pitchers, followed with a double to drive in Hal Schumacher, running for Mancuso, and Koenig with the final runs.

To offset the bad effects of the numerous errors, Pepper Martin, Cardinal third sacker, pulled one of the book in the eighth inning when he completed a double play at first base. After Travis Jackson had reached first on an error, Bill Terry lined to Martin and when Pepper dropped the ball they both forgot to run. Martin picked up the ball, raced across the diamond to tag Jackson and step on first to double Terry.

Repair Plan For Kitchens Rapidly Gaining In Favor

Modernization of the kitchen has proved in hundreds of instances to be more than justifiable expenditure. Since the beginning of the operation of the Modernization Credit Plan hundreds of American families have taken advantage of the credit made possible by the plan for remodeling and improving kitchens. The general trend has been toward an economy of space in an effort to minimize the time required to prepare a meal as well as to save as many steps for the housewife as possible. At the same time the Modernization Credit Plan has made it possible for many housewives to replace much of the old and out-moded kitchen equipment with modern kitchen equipment now on the market. The conservation of time and energy made possible in kitchens by the plan has been considered to more than compensate for the cost of such improvements.

Considering the kitchen as a room, improvement possibilities are many. The modern trend has been toward more adequate ventilation and increased window space. Numerous materials have also been developed for ceilings, walls, and floors which give added efficiency to a kitchen as a whole. These materials are either washable, insulating, fireproof, or impervious to dampness. Inclusion of any of these in the kitchen repair project minimizes the problems of cleanliness or discomfort.

There are also new kinds of equipment available on the present-day market which materially add to the convenience and efficiency of a kitchen. In many homes it has been found desirable to install rotary fans placed in a wall so that the hot air and fumes from the kitchen may be rapidly disseminated. Frequently ceiling fans are installed. There has also been a vast improvement in kitchen illumination. In many repair projects owners have found it advisable to completely rewire the room with outlets located at points convenient to electrical appliances.

Built-in Comfort, Efficiency

The illustration above gives a graphic idea of the advantages to be derived from built-in effects in home decoration. The glass and china cabinets flanking the arch in the foreground are not only decorative but utilize space that otherwise would be wasted. In the living room seen through the archway, built-in bookcases on both sides of the fireplace lend balance to the interior and perform a similar function to the cabinets by putting to work wall space that under other circumstances would have no utility. The paneled mirror above the mantel is another modern feature which creates an interesting detail and lends a suggestion of spaciousness to the room. Built-in features also minimize furniture requirements and tend to give a room an air of simplicity. Such improvements to existing property come under the provisions of the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit Plan. Many home owners are realizing the value of built-in effects and a large amount of modernization projects already completed throughout the country have included such improvements in one form or another.

Inflation Measures Spur Investments in Factory Building

Manufacturers Put Surplus Funds in Building Assets

Reprint from New York Times

Heavy capital expenditures made by industry in recent months are only the start of a wave of "fear" spending based on the certainty of business men that inflation cannot be avoided next year, accountants, industrial engineers and company executives agreed here yesterday.

Two factors, the inadequacy of the pending tax bill to meet requirements of the Federal spending program and the prospect of bonus legislation at the January session of Congress, are behind the desire to get available money into such tangible assets as new machinery and buildings, it was pointed out.

Contracts running into the millions have already been placed with makers of machine tools and with building construction companies by corporations. Other companies which have not already made commitments, it was pointed out, are quotations on capital goods and will let contracts before the end of this year.

According to one machine tool builder, the amount of new equipment business already budgeted in a score of industries is sufficient to furnish two years of capacity business alone. Another executive in the same field predicted the buying wave will gather sufficient momentum to give machine tool builders a cycle of prosperity for five years.

In the Midwest, factory building construction and machinery purchases are running at rates double those of 1924. In machine tool and factory machinery lines Western buying in the last several weeks has climbed to the highest level since late 1929. Because of heavy commitments, many machine tool builders are asking customers to accept December and January deliveries on goods purchased now.

"Corporations with surplus funds on hand are signing contracts for new buildings and equipment both to hedge against inflation and to avoid Federal taxes on surplus holdings," a leading accountant explained. "The heavy spending will continue through the Fall months and for some time to come."

Fear of bonus legislation, he added, is the major consideration to business executives, who point to the fact that the bonus has been promised as the first order of business when Congress convenes in January.

"With a Presidential election coming in the Fall and the seats of members of the House and many Senators at stake, there doesn't appear to be the slightest chance of stopping its passage," he pointed out. "Once that measure goes through inflation will inevitably follow."

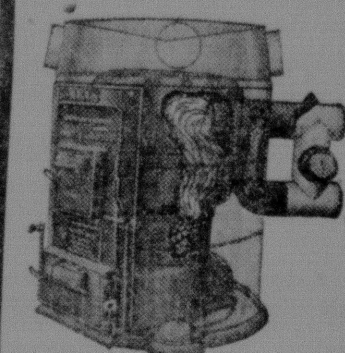

For the time being, he concluded, the exceptionally heavy buying has brought capacity business to a wide variety of supply lines and is certain to be a major factor in putting business at new high levels for the balance of the year.

Outline For Inexpensive Rural Community Center

An attractive community center in a rural district may be made if one of the farmers in the community has an old extra dwelling and barn on his property. He and his neighbors who have felt the need for a meeting place can cooperate and remodel these old buildings at very little cost to each family.

The barn can be finished in an inexpensive wallboard, painted a warm yellow, and utilized as an auditorium and dancing space. A small stage and dressing rooms transforms this into a theater, where plays and entertainments for both children and adults may be given.

The house can be connected with the barn by an ample enclosed passageway and the kitchen reconstructed and equipped to serve large groups. The old living and dining rooms utilized for a pleasant room for women's club meetings, and a small bedroom upstairs converted into a nursery will add to the usefulness of this building. Throughout the group, the woodwork inets, shelves, and the like are now on the market, which make kitchen duties a pleasure rather than drudgery. Until April 1, 1936, modernization credit in amounts up to $2,000 may be obtained from private lending institutions holding Housing Administration insurance contracts. The owner of a home may be given five years to repay such an obligation in monthly installments. Such credit advances are made strictly on a character basis with no collateral being required.

The borrower must be made to satisfy the lending institution of his financial responsibility and give assurance of his ability to repay the sum advanced within the time specified.

Fred Perry Marries Miss Vinson, Actress

The often reported and many times denied marriage of Fred Perry, international tennis star, and Helen Vinson, movie actress, was actually a fact today.

They were married in a midnight ceremony last night at Harrison, N. Y., favored Gretna Green of the Metropolitan area, by Justice of the Peace Leo Mintzer.

The marriage was Perry's first but the marriage document revealed that the movie actress was divorced from Harry Neilson Vickerman in Los Angeles.

Miss Vinson, a native of Beaumont, Texas, gave her age as 27 and said that she lived in Hollywood. Perry said he was 26 and listed "Ealing, W. S., England" as his address.

Broadway columnists have had the two "married" half a dozen times in the month that Perry has been in this country.

Their romance started in England where Perry gained renown as tennis star on the famed Centre Court at Wimbledon.

The day before his wedding he was defeated by Wilmer Allison as he fought to defend his American men's singles championship at Forest Hills.

Will Investigate "Witness Fixing"

Indianapolis, Sept. 13.—(P)—Prosecutor Herbert Spencer ordered a grand jury investigation of alleged "witness fixing" in divorce trials here today after Virgil McAnelly of Bloomington, Illinois, received a ten day jail sentence for direct contempt of court.

Chalmers Schlosser, Superior Court judge pro tem, imposed the sentence after McAnelly said he had been a resident of Marion county longer than two years, the legal requirement in a divorce suit.

Judge Schlosser denied McAnelly's divorce petition. Mrs. McAnelly, who appeared in court after her husband testified he did not know her whereabouts, said McAnelly is a legal resident of Illinois and had been living with her at Bloomington until July of this year.

Illinois Cattle Farmers Meet

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—Illinois cattle farmers gathered 1,000 strong here today to learn how to produce high quality beef at lower cost.

Their attention was directed to the record of a herd of Hereford steers which paid their owner $1.50 for each bushel of corn consumed in a 228-day feeding period in dry lot.

The record, reported by Prof. H. P. Rusk and R. R. Snapp of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, was the best related at the school's eighth annual cattle breeders day program.

Cattlemen agreed the prospects of profits this year was brighter, with plentiful supplies of roughage and corn to feed livestock. Last year cattle were cheap, but feed was scarce and expensive.

American Legion Chooses Queen

Urbana, Ill.—Prospects for fairly high egg returns during the remainder of 1935 may be made more certain by careful culling of pullets before they are put in the laying house this fall. It is stated by H. A. Hipp, poultry extension specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Culling at this period in the bird's development should not be made on the basis of the number of eggs the pullet will lay, but upon the basis of her physical fitness, according to Al. P.

In practically every flock there are individuals lacking in the vigor and thriftiness necessary for good fall and winter egg production. Retaining them will mean that feed and space will be wasted and the net income from egg sales decreased. In addition the weaker birds are more susceptible to disease and may be the means of introducing serious epidemics into the flock.

Lack of body weight is one indication that the pullet is low in vitality, Al. P. said. Other signs of poor physical condition include rough, loose feathers, paleness of comb and face, lack of pigment in feet and shanks and a general listlessness.

The ideal time to weed out weaklings is when the pullets are being transferred to the laying house. By following this method, the poultryman will be able to start the fall season with a flock of thrifty, vigorous young pullets that are prepared to give maximum egg production for the feed consumed.

Such a flock will enable the owner to take advantage of the good egg price levels forecast for the coming fall and winter months, Al. P. declared.

EGG INCOME MAY BE BOOSTED THIS FALL BY CULLING

London.—(P)—The great concentration of British ships in the vicinity of Suez, which has already sent a near-record number of ships to that area, for peace-time, continues unabated, a list of ship movements made public by the admiralty showed today.

The list showed that the flotilla leader Cordogion and four destroyers, Active, Antelope, Achates and Reliant have arrived at Alexandria, Egypt.

The battleship Barham and the destroyer Arrow have left Malta, British Mediterranean base off Sicily, presumably for Suez. The Sloop Weston has left Malta for Port Said.

The massing of ships was being carried out quietly, without previous announcements, despite recent admiralty statements that the Mediterranean fleet was not being reinforced and capital ships were not being sent there.

Joliet.—(P)—Firemen estimated at $1,000 the damage in a fire at the state prison soap factory. A convict workman using an acetylene torch started the blaze. The prisoners remained quiet.

Chapin.—The remains of Mrs. James Beddingfield will be brought here at one o'clock Saturday afternoon from Barrow, Ill., and taken to the home of her brother, Frank Blair. Friends may view the remains there until the time of the funeral, which is 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Chapin Christian church. The casket will not be opened at the church.

Mrs. Beddingfield, who before marriage was Ida Blair of this community, died Wednesday night at a Jacksonville hospital. Her home for a number of years had been at Barrow in Greene county.

Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Earl Bowman of Hillview; two brothers, Frank Blair, Chapin, and Will Blair, Versailles.

Laura Ingalls Sets New West-East Mark For Women Airbirds

New York.—(P)—Pettie Laura Ingalls today held the women's west-east transcontinental air non-stop record—a mark that the persistent flyer had twice before attempted and failed.

Just before midnight she set her Lockheed-Orion monoplane down on Floyd Bennett Field, 13 hours, 34 minutes and five seconds after leaving Los Angeles.

Seven minutes faster time and she would have tied the non-stop record for both men and women held by Frank Hawks. She might have turned the trick if her radio compass had been functioning.

It went out of commission, she said, just west of Columbus, O. Because it was not working she overshot Floyd Bennett as far as Mitchell Field, cruising to lost altitude, and then turned back to claim the record from Amelia Earhart Putnam.

The former vaudeville dancer who turned flyer just after Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew the Atlantic said she thought her record was "fine."

"It's about time it happened. Even Miss Earhart said she had held the record too long."

Dressed in corduroy trousers and zipper sweater with a monk's hood, Miss Ingalls looked none the worse for her dash across country.

Her food on the trip east was "only a banana," she said.

She had flown from 10,000 to 12,000 feet above ground, she said, most of the way.

"I used the automatic (robot) pilot off and on, and I used the Department of Commerce radio beam. It was perfect."

Three Youths Are Killed By Train

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—Three young men, ranging in age from 18 to 23, were killed by a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train as they walked across tracks in the Rose Lake yards near here this afternoon.

The dead were Joseph Balling, 18; John Heuser, 21, and his brother, Emil, 23. Their heads were crushed.

The three, employed by an ice and fire company to transfer coal from cars in the yard to waiting trucks, were killed as they returned to their jobs from lunch.

Balling was a brother of Edward Balling, one of three youths recently executed at the Chester penitentiary for the murder of William C. Moss, street car motorman.

England Continues To Strengthen Force

London.—(P)—The great concentration of British ships in the vicinity of Suez, which has already sent a near-record number of ships to that area, for peace-time, continues unabated, a list of ship movements made public by the admiralty showed today.

The list showed that the flotilla leader Cordogion and four destroyers, Active, Antelope, Achates and Reliant have arrived at Alexandria, Egypt.

The battleship Barham and the destroyer Arrow have left Malta, British Mediterranean base off Sicily, presumably for Suez. The Sloop Weston has left Malta for Port Said.

The massing of ships was being carried out quietly, without previous announcements, despite recent admiralty statements that the Mediterranean fleet was not being reinforced and capital ships were not being sent there.

Lake at White Hall Will Be Restocked

Sportsmen Reorganize and Talk Over Plans for Conservation

White Hall—A reorganization meeting of the White Hall Fishing club was held Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the city hall and the name of the organization was changed to include not only fishermen in its membership but hunters and all interested in conservation and propagation of fish and game.

For a number of years the White Hall Fishing club had jurisdiction over the city lake by special arrangement with the White Hall City Council. A small membership fee was charged and the club enjoyed a satisfactory membership until the advent of the depression.

The last regular meeting of the club was held April 3, 1933, at which time election of officers was held and Norman Jones made president, Delbert Crabtree, vice-president and Ruel McMahon, secretary-treasurer.

Game Warden W. J. Allen of Rodhouse, Thomas Cummings of Jerseyville and J. J. Langley of Staunton of the State Department of Conservation service and Arthur Thatcher of Jerseyville, attended the meeting.

Plans were discussed by the club members for the reorganization of the organization, one of which includes the culling and restocking of the city lake with game fish. Members of the club reported Tuesday night that the game fish have been crowded from the waters of the city lake by the rough types of fish, buffalo and carp until there are no bass, croppie and other types of game fish remaining.

In the near future, the Department of Conservation will send men to assist in the culling of the lake for the rough fish, and a supply of game fish will be obtained from the low water areas in the vicinity of Beardstown and transported in tanks to White Hall.

Ohio State to Use Fancy Formations

Coach Passes Out Aerial Work with Plenty of Wide Open Stuff; Others Busy

By WILLIAM WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago.—(P)—At the rate he is passing out fancy formations, Francis Schmidt's scarlet clad Ohio State gridiron squad promises to live up to its advance reputation as the Big Ten's most spectacular outfit.

After a couple of heavy days of fundamentals, Schmidt turned his forces loose yesterday with a dazzling assortment of passes, both forward and lateral and combinations of both. As many as four players handled the ball on some of the maneuvers which worked surprisingly well for so early in the training season.

Passing also featured the Minnesota and Indiana workouts. George Roscoe, 195 pound back, completed several 40 yard shots to backs and ends at Minneapolis, and with Whitman Rork, gave a fine punting demonstration. At Indiana, Bo McMillin had his men firing forward passes all over the place. The throwing was handled by Vernon Huffman, Wendell Walker, Ray Fox and George Fowler.

Routine drills were the rule in most of the other camps. At Wisconsin, Dr. C. W. Spears continued to shift players about and finished with a lively line scrimmage. Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago, Bob Zuppke at Illinois, and Ossie Solem, Iowa, devoted most of their workouts to looking over the reserves.

Lynn Waldorf experimented with two Northwestern backfield combinations and Purdue lineemen received most of Noble Kizer's attention. Apparently satisfied that Captain Ed Skorniski and George Bell will do as centers, Kizer shifted Martin Schreyer, a sophomore pivotman, to tackle.

Tough luck caught up with Michigan when Stark Ritchie, sophomore who had been counted on as a regular halfback, suffered a chipped bone in his right ankle. In an effort to strengthen the line Coach Harry Kipke moved Harry Lutomski, a fullback, to guard.

Little, Emery To Play Golf Finals

By Alan Gould Associated Press Sports Editor

Cleveland, Sept. 13.—(P)—A black-haired bomber of golf, William Lawrence Little, Jr., blasted his way into the final round of the American championship today by shaking off the threatening jinx of Friday the 13th and simultaneously crushing the challenge of his foremost rival and room-mate, Omaha's Johnny Gooden.

Searing to almost unbelievable making heights under the overcast pressure he has felt all week, all square after 37 holes of his semi-final match, Little delivered a counter attack that flattened the little Nebraska and left the onlookers peeped in amazement.

The defending champion shot birdies on five of the last eight holes, capping the climax with a 50 foot curling putt on the 33rd green, and eliminated Goodman by 4 and 3 with one of the greatest finishes in the history of the tournament.

Tomorrow, in the 36 hole final, Little will fight it out with a 23 year old University of Oklahoma law student, tall, blond, Walter Emery. Favored all week to reach the championship round as he battered his way through the upper half of the draw, Emery hurled the final obstacle by beating Joseph P. Lynch, portly Bostonian and 1935 Georgetown golf champion, by 4 and 3.

Thus the two semi-final matches ended by the same margin, at the same spot on the heavily-wooded country club of Cleveland, but the contrast in the two finishes was such as to make Little a prohibitive favorite to whip the Oklahoman in the title bout. Up to today Emery's performances were such that his followers had no hesitation in matching his scoring feats with those of the champion.

County Officials

Ask for Old Jobs

Horner Considers Plea to Restore Poor Overseers

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Without indicating whether the issue would be placed before a special legislative session, Governor Horner today considered the request of a group of county officials that the township supervisors be given old ex-officio positions as overseers of the poor.

M. L. Bowler of St. Clair county headed a delegation of county officials in asking the governor late yesterday to permit the legislature to repeal one of the 1935 amendments to the pauper relief act.

The request, formulated by a committee representing some of the larger counties, was taken under advisement by Mr. Horner.

For several years, local relief has been a township responsibility. The recent legislature, however, transferred the tax levying power back to the counties.

The major objection of the supervisors was that they want to continue to act as overseers of the poor.

The BLUE DOOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

RUTH WOODSON, a pretty, high-spirited girl of 19, traveling in the mid-west in search of work, is put off a bus in the little town of Worthville, when she breaks out and she seeks refuge in an old stone mansion with a blue door. Fainting from hunger, Ruth is carried upstairs by the queer old housekeeper, BERTHA GIBBS, also known as "PENNY," and by JOHN McNEILL, from next door.

Penny believes Ruth to be ELAINE CHALMERS, whose grandfather built the house. Elaine, meanwhile, at Graystone, Iowa, is a society girl, trying to win the love of John McNeill, her first sweetheart. She plans to go to Worthville.

Ruth, in love with John, resolves to stay on a while at the old house, pretending to be Elaine.

A man, known as JOHN SMITH, escapes from an institution for the criminally insane, buys a new-car and starts for Worthville where he assures himself "Old Bertha Gibbs will hide me."

His car blows out a tire and while he is working with it, John McNeill returns from a business trip, offers to help. Smith dismisses him. Later both men wonder where they have seen the other before. John, driving home, thinks of the girl he calls "Elaine" and realizes that he loves her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

SOON after Penny's return from town the groceries arrived. Ruth helped her put them away on the pantry shelves. Studying the sample outlay, Ruth suggested: "Suppose I make you a cake, Penny? A day-late birthday cake!"

"My!" exclaimed Penny in surprise. "That would be grand. I can't recall when I had a cake—but can you cook, Miss Elaine?"

"I can cook better than I can play golf," replied Ruth impressively and with secret humor. "I learned it at school."

Penny ventured timidly, "Could you somehow make the icing pink, Miss Elaine? I always thought it would be elegant to have a cake with pink icing."

"Why, yes," Ruth answered, after thinking over the pathetic request. "I can color it with a little of the water you're cooking the beets in. At least I'll do my best."

In an hour the cake was cooling and waiting for its decoration. Ruth contrived to color the icing by boiling the sugar in beet water. The result was such a delicate pink froth as to gladden Penny's heart.

Tears of pride came to the old woman's eyes as she surveyed the beautiful, three-story structure which had been made for her with such infinite pains. "I never thought to have the like!" she exclaimed.

"We'll eat it tonight after supper," Ruth said. "While it's still soft and fresh."

Later, after Penny had served Ruth and had cleared the supper table of the simple one-course meal, the cake was brought out. Since it was Penny's cake, Ruth felt it was ridiculous that it should be served by Penny rather than shared with Penny. She thought: "I know Elaine would never do it, but I'm going to ask her to sit down at the table with me, so we can eat it together."

She did. The old woman, after a bit of denigrating, drew up a chair to the big walnut table and eagerly held out her plate for one of the soft, thick slices.

"Oh, yes," replied Bertha, and she took the plate and sat down at the kitchen table. Her hands were trembling. All color was drained from her face. She stared at the cake unseeing, and then she began to crumble it in her fingers.

Ruth finished tidying the kitchen and watched her in puzzled silence. Presently she asked gently, "Has something happened to shock you, Penny? Was that a telegram at the door?"

The old woman looked at her intently and then lowered her eyes. "Yes," she said, "a telegram. A body never knows what to expect these days."

"Was it bad news?" asked Ruth anxiously. "Was it about your job here?"

"Not that," replied the old woman harshly. "Something else. Something I've hoped for for a long time. And—dreaded."

"Oh!" said Ruth. She wondered where the telegram was. In Penny's apron pocket, perhaps. She asked, "Would it help you any to share the news with me?"

Bertha Gibbs shook her head, seemed to draw within herself. "I'll share the news with nobody!" she said defiantly. "Don't keep at me!" She was a changed person. Before that knock on the door she had been merely a pathetic, dingy little old woman, eagerly happy over a cake with pink icing. She had returned from the summons like a weird old witch, suspicious, hateful, remote.

Ruth shivered a little. Darkness had fallen outside and a drizzling rain had set in. Sudden gusts of wind sent the leaves scurrying. The McNeill house was dark across the lawn. John had told Ruth that he would spend the day in Akron and that he was having dinner tonight with one of the men in his firm, a man named Bennett. Mrs. Bennett was visiting them and John had been asked to make a fourth at dinner and bridge.

RUTH thought, looking across at the dark house, "I guess he's terribly in demand because he's so terribly eligible." She wondered if Mrs. Bennett's niece was attractive and tried not to hate her.

She turned from the window and lighted another candle, a thick one that stood in a heavy holder and gave off a light that was strong enough for reading. She would go into the library, she decided, and choose a book to read in her room. Something heavy. Something that wouldn't lie awake through the long evening, waiting for John McNeill to leave Mrs. Bennett's niece.

Ignoring Penny because of her strange rudeness, she left the room, went to the library and carefully selected her book. It was Hawthorne's "Mosses From an Old Manse," certainly a sleepy title. She came out into the hall again and as she was going toward the stairs she was arrested by her own reflection in the tall pier glass that stood against the wall.

But suddenly the mirror showed her something else of interest. Another picture. It reflected the shadowy dining room behind her. At the table stood Penny, her activities etched by the light of a candle that stood on the table beside her. She was cutting away half the cake and was tapping it in a napkin. She was doing it hastily and slyly.

"Well!" thought Ruth. "Of all things! It's her own cake. Why on earth does she have to act that way about it?"

She went hurriedly up the stairs as if she had seen nothing, and when she had gained her own room and closed her door, she carefully locked it.

She thought, "It's just as John told me. Old Bertha Gibbs is queer. Maybe worse."

She remembered how the old creature had acted about the blue paint on the door. How she had said, so queerly and senselessly, that she couldn't touch brush to it "because the quarter moon's past!" "It doesn't make sense," Ruth admitted thoughtfully as she undressed. "Furthermore, when I questioned her about the telegram tonight she looked at me as if she hated me. That doesn't make sense either."

Rotarians Hosts to Farmers at Friday Gathering of Club

Members And Guests Hear David C. Reynolds on Rural Problems

"Pure Bred Livestock and Quality Production" was the subject of an address delivered by David Reynolds of Woodson at the Rotary club's annual "Farmers' Day" luncheon at the Peacock Inn Friday.

Mr. Reynolds, who is one of Morgan county's leading farmers and livestock raisers, stated that quality production always brings good dividends to the agriculturist.

"There are three classes of farmers," the speaker said. "The resident farmer who lives on his own farm; the city owned farm, for investment only, and the tenant farmer."

"Quality production" may mean all of these, and then it may not include any one of them.

"Soil has nothing to do with production," Mr. Reynolds said. "Many farmers work on someone's idea, but the successful farmer has an idea of his own and 'watches his step.'"

Mr. Reynolds stated that the differences between quality production and "market production" was that a farmer or sells his quality production at home at his own price, while "market production" is sold at the market price whatever the buyer sees fit to pay.

He declared that the Four-H club work of the Farm Bureau is helping the farm youth and will help to keep the boys and girls on the farm.

Mr. Reynolds told of his experience in dairy cattle breeding. Starting his herd with a cow that gave only 45 pounds of milk per day, he has been able by careful breeding to bring the production from his cows to 110 pounds of milk every 24 hours.

Guests of the club Friday were: Wallace Hembrough, Henry DeFries, C. C. Davis, Charles Rhodes, A. J. McCarty, Howard Stevenson, John Mosley, J. W. Arnold, Arthur M. Masters, Lawrence T. Oxley, B. C. Taylor, all of Morgan county, and Arthur Munson of Minneapolis.

SIXTY-FIVE AT COOKING SCHOOL

Sixty ladies attended the first sessions of the Cooking School which were held yesterday afternoon and evening at Gustine's furniture store on South Main street. Another school will be conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock and again this evening at 7:30.

This series of lecture demonstrations is being conducted by Miss Alma Chambers, daughter of the inventor of the Chambers Range, that "cooks" with the gas turned off—on retained heat. All you have to do when you cook on retained heat is to heat the food through completely once. Then the remarkable construction and insulation of Chambers Ranges make it possible to shut off the gas. The food is sealed up automatically for continued cooking upon the heat stored within itself during the short gas-burning period. While your meat cooks with the gas turned off no pot watching is necessary. Nothing possibly can burn or scorch. The food will be done in the usual length of time, but your meats and vegetables can be left in the Chambers Range for hours longer, yet still be hot and delicious when you are ready to serve them.

Miss Chambers prepared peanut butter cookies, coffee parfait and pot roast with vegetables. An interesting feature of yesterday's session was the making of ice cream in the gas range while cookies were being baked. The samples of the ice cream and cookies were given to those attending the school.

Miss Chambers will prepare baked ham, baked beans, broiled chops and vegetables this afternoon. Tonight she will prepare baked ham, pancakes and sausage, vegetables and bake a cake.

OBSERVATION CONSTITUTION DAY PLANNED

Program To Be Given By Social Science Dept' Of High School

Plans for the observation of Constitution Day at the high school were announced yesterday. The day falls on Tuesday, September 17, this year, the anniversary of the completion of the work of the Constitutional Convention.

A unique program has been arranged and will be carried out by the Social Science department. During the day, the 12 American History classes will each be visited by a group of five students from the Civil Government class, taught by John Payne. Each of these groups will lead a discussion on some phase of the constitution.

The first group, or team, will give an account of the difficulties which resulted in the organizing of the convention. Team two will speak on the framers of the constitution. The third group will explain the constitution's fundamental ideals. The students of team four will talk of the sources of the constitution while the fifth group is to speak on why the document is an important issue today.

Following these speeches in each American History section, there will be a general discussion by the whole class on the material that has been presented and upon any other aspect of the constitution. ## PLAN CHANGE IN AUTO BUSINESS HERE IS REPORT

Lukeman Motor Company To Quit Ford Motor Agency Is Rumor

A change in management of one of the city's best known automobile agencies was reported here yesterday. While no definite announcement was made of the business change it was reported Friday that the Lukeman Motor Company will relinquish the Ford agency and that it will be managed by John M. Pine, well known Winchester business man.

George Lukeman, head of the Lukeman Motor company, will continue business at his West State street garage, he stated yesterday, but had no comment to make concerning Mr. Pine's plans. Mr. Lukeman recently remodeled his garage, enlarging it and equipping it with several thousands dollars worth of equipment for servicing automobiles, and expects to continue this line of business.

Mr. Pine has for a number of years been engaged in the automobile business in Scott county, and is now agent for the Ford Motor Company at Winchester. It was not learned yesterday what his plans are concerning the Ford agency at Winchester, but it is understood that he may engage the Auto Inn for his business headquarters here. However, he refused to confirm this report Friday.
